

ZOLTÁN OSZKÁR SZÁNTÓ (PhD) is full Professor of economic sociology and social theory at Corvinus University of Budapest, where he works currently as Dean of Corvinus Institute for Advanced Studies.

Earlier he served Corvinus as Dean of Faculty of Social Sciences (2000-04), Vice Rector for Education (2012-17), Vice Rector for General Affairs (2018-19), and Vice President for International Relations and Accreditations (2020-22). He was Advisor of Minister of Culture and Innovation (2022-24), and Scientific and General Director of the recently established Human Potentials Observatory nonprofit LLC (2023-).

He has numerous Hungarian and English publications and his empirical studies of privatization, economic organization, financial culture, and corruption have focused on the concepts of social capital, network, and trust. He presently explores and develops the concept of Future Potentials of various social entities, such as countries, institutions, and families.