

PÉTER SZABADHEGY has had a distinguished career including banking, management consulting, private equity and start-up investing, family business management, diplomacy, and charity organizations.

After growing up, studying and beginning his career in the United States, he moved to Budapest at the age of 30, where he is now settled with his wife and five children.

He received an MBA from the University of Chicago and a Masters in Economics from the London School of Economics (LSE).

In addition to the various business leadership roles in the past three decades in Central Europe, Szabadhegy recently served as Hungary's Ambassador to the United Kingdom. He has also served in leadership roles in various charity organizations, such as the Fulbright Commission, Rotary International, and the Order of Malta.
